FROM THE DIRECTOR

As we enter a new year, our Well-Being activities continue to transition from USAMEDCOM oversight to the Northeast Region Office (NERO) based at Fort Monroe, Virginia. Transformation of Installation Management established a corporate structure focused on installation management to support base operations and enable commanders to focus on their mission. The NERO will oversee the Well-Being services provided on Fort Detrick which will now operate on established equitable standards of service that will be mandated at all Army installations worldwide, and improve the delivery of services to commanders, soldiers, and their families. The bottom-line is the services and activities you receive at Fort Detrick will be similar to the services and activities you would find at any other installation in the Army. Hopefully, this transformation on how we do our business—which is taking care of people—means that we will continue to receive the funding and the staffing to provide world-class operations and services.

Operation Happy Holidays, which was conducted by my Army Community Service, was a great success once again. We were able to provide over 71 families with food, gifts, and toys during our holiday season. Individuals, units, and activities from both on and off post sponsored these families. I want to take this opportunity to thank my staff and all the units and organizations that participated in Operation Happy Holidays for a job well done, because without you this could not have been a success.

THANK YOU!

I also want to take this opportunity to recognize our Army Community Service for an excellent job in receiving full accreditation with commendation for the Army Community Service, Army Family Action Plan, and Army Family Team Building programs. They were evaluated in over 225 standards and found to be in compliance with all of them. This was a complete “TEAM” effort between our staff and the support agencies on Fort Detrick and speaks well for the caliber of the workforce on Fort Detrick. We truly do epitomize taking care of people which are our most important assets. HOOAH!!

As I stated in our last Well-Being Quarterly, please continue to let us know how we are doing in our programs and services. Your input is truly important to us and without that input we cannot enhance our services.

Rafael (Ralph) Santaliz, Jr.
Director, Community Services

AFTB Inform the AmVets

On 7 October 2002, Ms. Judith McKnight a well-experienced Army spouse and AFTB Master Trainer attended the Frederick Amvets Women Auxiliary meeting to discuss the need for AFTB volunteers on Fort Detrick. Ms. McKnight talked about Army Community Service (ACS) and the need for volunteers to work with the different outreach programs. She talked about the AFTB and how there is a need for trainers to help train new spouses of our military on what to expect while being a military family member. She explained and talked about some of the courses offered, such as the Military Chain of Command and Chain of Concern, Problem Solving, Military and Civilian Resources, and Volunteer Management. She also talked about how AFTB came about and how it is vitally important for the military family members to attend this program so that they are prepared in case their spouse is deployed.

Welcome the Newest AFTB Master Trainer

CSM Ronnie Blanton, 1110th Signal Battalion arrived at Fort Detrick in September 2002 and during the ACS in-processing he mentioned that he was a current AFTB Master Trainer and offered to participate in the local program.

“I have been involved in AFTB for four years. Being an AFTB volunteer is my way of giving back to the community. Based on my experience with the military, I was capable of converting the lesson plans into plain language and also answering questions on other general military subjects. I am a Master Trainer, I have a graduate degree in human relations and I have 27 years of military service. I believe I bring a breath of experience of knowledge to the program. When family members are well informed and taken care of, it enables the soldier to concentrate on his/her duties. The AFTB provides a vehicle for keeping the family member advised as to how the Army works. I wish more family members would take advantage of the program. It provides basic foundation for young family members to learn how the Army works.”
